MAURICE LEBLANC
CHRISTEL ESPIÉ

Christel Espié has abridged and illustrated the very first story of the Gentleman Burglar, written in 1905 by Maurice Leblanc.

ARSÈNE LUPIN: THE STRANGEST OF JOURNEYS

On the transatlantic ship La Provence, the captain informs the passengers that the famous thief Arsène Lupin is on board and that a woman's jewels have been stolen. Panic immediately sets in as the passengers all become suspicious of each other. Led by Bernard d'Andrésy, they attempt to weed out the thief hidden among them with the few clues he left behind. But the Gentleman Burglar is never where you expect him to be!

A precious birth book that celebrates birth, respect for others, and nature.

I AM A TREE

This charming birth book is based on a dialogue between a tree and a child as they both grow up simultaneously. They realize how much they have in common, how they both belong to nature and need it to be healthy. To illustrate this beautiful text on the harmony between mankind and nature, Anne Crahay used die-cuts and the egg tempera technique, which is one of the earliest types of painting and makes complete sense given the subject of this poetic book.

ON THE WAY TO SCHOOL

Each of the five stories in this collection begins the night before school starts. Squirrel, Badger, Weasel, Worm, and Prawn all experience fear in their own particular way as they approach the school gate. With finesse and warmth, the authors explore the contradictory feelings that this major milestone incites.

*Ten more, ten less...
There's always room!*

TEN MORE, TEN LESS

Milly is living happily and peacefully in her beloved house when one day, ten abandoned dogs show up asking for shelter... The good-natured Milly welcomes them with open arms: "Ten more, ten less, there's always room." They are all living in their beloved house when ten plants trying to escape the night frost beg for hospitality. Then ten fish, shellfish, owls, turtles... "There's always room!" Until the day the house's walls begin to shake, twist, and wince...

WHERE HAVE THE BIRDS GONE?

In the last thirty years, a quarter of the bird population has disappeared. All over the world, scientists are sounding the alarm: numbers are plummeting and some species are close to extinction. This documentary offers an overview of the situation, retraces the complex relationship between man and birds (defined by fascination and exploitation), explains the causes of this disaster, and gives us hope by offering concrete ways to act and protect nature. We can save the birds!

› DIS, C'EST QUOI LE BONHEUR ?

TELL ME, WHAT IS HAPPINESS?

A little rabbit goes out to meet the creatures around and asks them, "What is happiness?" For the flower, it is feeling the rays of the sun gently warming its petals. For the great oak, it is feeling beautiful and majestic. For the bird, it is gliding freely through the sky, while for the bear, it is feasting on honey... After having discussed the question with other animals, the rabbit learns from a child that happiness can take many forms.

ARTEMIS'S SERIAL

The essential episodes of Greek mythology, revolving around Artemis, daughter of Zeus and Leto, who chooses to leave Olympus to take refuge in wild forests, watching over teenagers during their passage to adulthood. Mythology, a theme that fascinates young and old alike, is perfect for a "crossover" project that appeals to all readers. Murielle Szac's talent lies in her ability to use mythology as a canvas to explore great existential questions such as maternity, love, mourning, the feminine, the masculine, etc.

LIES BIGGER THAN MIDDLE SCHOOL

Five teens embark on an epic journey through life: innocence, laughter, first kisses, but also racism, distrust, revolt and violence... This five-volume saga maps out each character's journey, intrinsically linked with their social backgrounds and families. Each of them grows in confidence in this environment full of challenges and trials to overcome, choices to make, pitfalls to avoid... or not. Insa Sané gives a voice to characters often forgotten in literature, to dispel the idea that "they" aren't like us.

A gorgeous and quirky book full of animals as you've never seen them before!

THE BIG ANIMAL PARADE

Who knew? Frogs aren't always green and not all birds fly. Some baby animals look nothing like the adults they'll become, and some males and females of the same species look completely different. Some hibernate or are nocturnal, and others have long hair or a mask! Julie Colombet groups animals by their surprising and bizarre traits, like silly family portraits, inviting us to observe them. In fact, the animals seem to be staring back at us with their big, round, white eyes—the illustrator's signature trait.

THE FRIENDS OF THE MOSSLESS FOREST

Squirrel, Wolf, and all the friends of the Mossless Forest lead a peaceful life. But the arrival of Pim the panda, an exotic traveler, will turn everything upside down. Inspired by his distant country, the friends will transform their little hill into a rice field worthy of the most beautiful rice terraces in Asia... Alas, winter and its first frosts blow away their harvest dreams. But the friends of the Mossless Forest will turn the frozen rice terrace into a fun ice skating rink!

JEANNE DETALLANTE

A rich, illustrated book featuring scientific data and entertaining anecdotes to give young readers an inside peek into the wonderful intelligence of animals.

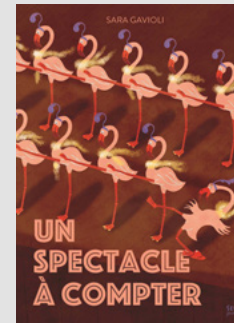

BEING AN ANIMAL

An animal's intelligence is adapted to its species, physical characteristics, and the life it leads. An ant does not see the world like a lion. A cat's life is very different from that of a panda. A sparrow does not have the same needs as an octopus. So they all have different kinds of intelligence. Did you know that the nutcracker has more memory than we do? Or that a pigeon orientates itself in space faster than we can? And what about termites, which can build air-conditioned mounds strong enough to resist tsunamis?

THE SHOWTIME COUNTDOWN

Come on, take a seat, the show is about to begin. 1 ticket seller is waiting for you: you're lucky, there are only 2 seats left! The 3 doors of the dressing room are closed, where 4 makeup artists and costume designers are putting on the final touches. Look! 5 spotlights are turning on and the host is announcing the 6 acts of the evening. The 7 rows are filled, there are only 8 minutes left until the show starts... Away to discover the theater, just in time for their reopening!

DEATH FRIGHTENS A BIT, A LOT...

Talking about death with children isn't always easy! But it is part of life. All living things are born, live, and die... That is how the cycle of life works. Each person has their own way of dealing with loss: some prefer to be alone; others deal with it in groups. One thing is certain: death is much less frightening when you talk about it! Rhéa Dufresne explores this topic gently and delicately.

The Amazon is an amazing river! First, it is one of the longest in the world. It flows through 6 countries and covers about a third of South America! During floods, it seeps into the Amazon rainforest. Together, they shelter an unparalleled biodiversity with nearly 15% of known life forms! Thousands of people depend on this river. Botanists discovered that the forest had been domesticated by native peoples, who contributed to the growing of medicinal and edible species.

WHY SPACE EXPLORATION?

Although humans have long dreamt of exploring space, the adventure only started 60 years ago. The first excursion was technological: satellites, probes... followed by Man's first step on the Moon! This leads to more questions than answers for astrophysicists: does space conquest still make sense today? What ecological impact for the Earth, but also for space? What technological innovations has it brought us?

JEANNE MACAIGNE

A story with ecological undertones, told by a house with a strong personality who is determined to reconcile its inhabitants with where they live!

› CHANGER D'AIR

A CHANGE OF SCENERY

The House lives in a nice neighborhood. She and her inhabitants get along very well. But one day, the inhabitants start to argue, giving way to anger and bitterness. They are so busy tearing each other apart that they neglect the House. To avoid falling into ruins, The House decides to get a change of scenery. After a long nighttime journey, she settles in a little piece of heaven by the water. The inhabitants rediscover the joy of being together. The House is happy again... But soon, quarrels reappear.

› UNE MAMAN, C'EST COMME UNE MAISON

A MOM IS LIKE A HOUSE

A mother is like a nest, a mother is like a vehicle, a mother is like a fountain... Like a nursery rhyme, these short sentences accompany every step of a baby's daily life. As the pages go by, the child grows up and goes through different learning processes. The mother who was a nest for the newborn becomes a road, a story, or a show. As the child grows, the distance between them does too. Until the last picture of the child's first steps. Because a mother is like a home that you carry inside you forever.

A NIGHT AT THE INSECT'HOTEL

It's the end of summer and the Cowpat family is heading home. But it's too stormy outside so they must stop off at the Insect Hotel. There is only one small room left. Poor Suzy, between her grandfather's feet and her mother's snoring, the little beetle is unable to sleep. She decides to check out the hotel and meet its occupants. They all warn her about a strange, gigantic, and scary thing haunting the corridors. But Suzy is curious and audacious. With her aphid cuddly toy, she continues to explore...

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SUMMER EVER

A young boy is spending the summer with his mother at his grandparents' house. Over the course of these months, the mother and son share many moments of infinite simplicity and beauty: they discover birds and insects, pick blackberries, deal with the spider in the bathroom... and much more. Learning to tie your shoelaces doesn't happen overnight, and neither does growing up. It will take time for the boy to find his place in the world and his family. A story that will resonate with all children!
