A 17-year-old boy comes to represent the world's youth in the fight against global warming in this ecological thriller.

At a time when global warming seems inevitable, a high school student becomes the spokesperson for young people all over the world who dream of a bright future in a sustainable world. Summoned into the ocean deep by strange whales, Jason gets one last-ditch chance to bear a message to all humankind from nature, a final warning. From then on, his life is thrown into a whirlwind: not just figuratively, what with all the media attention, but literally too. No surprise there -- after all, this whole thing started deep in the Bermuda Triangle...
