Beside the snap peas and the cabbage leaves, a gastropodal eco-revolution is afoot in Guston's garden!

In Guston's vegetable garden, hidden behind cabbage leaves and snap peas, fatty slugs and greedy frogs are fighting over the backyard's many delicacies. But one day, panic strikes! One by one, slugs and frogs start getting sick, exploding, vanishing...

Overcome by grief, and realizing that they've been poisoned by the gardener, the survivors of this massacre kick off a plot to bring Guston down – literally, to the ground!

Anne Zeum delivers a humorous, psychedelic, and ecologically-minded fable. This ambitious first volume tackles such issues as biodiversity and permaculture.
