Eating is a basic need. But how do we produce and consume while protecting our planet?

While eating should be but a matter of pleasure and conviviality, our way of feeding ourselves raises numerous issues of means, inequality, and education. Moreover, the foodstuffs we produce and waste are endangering the planet. The thought of having to feed 10 billion human beings by 2050 poses quite a challenge!

A very contemporary topic approached in a very simple way, with very colorful illustrations.
