Imagine what your room, house, town, school or travels will look like in 2030.

Climate change paints a gloomy picture, but not all is doomed. Not if we keep our chins up, stay informed, and act now. This beautiful book, full of hope, wants young readers to do just that, giving them a glimpse of what things might look like in 2030 and a way to understand what we must actually change (and soon) in our daily life and the world around us in order to create a more sustainable lifestyle on this planet. Featuring "ingenious ideas," quizzes, and "true or false" questions to help readers 7-and-up take action : because we can, right now, each in our own way.
