A powerful tribute to all the children of the world who dream, wherever they are, of somewhere else.

"In your country, when you're poor, you get scraps. In my country, when you're poor, you get scrapped."

"In my country, there is war, and I fear death. In your country, there is peace and you're afraid to live."

In 12 two-page spreads, poetic, incantatory couplets and powerful illustrations depict tragedy and unrest but also the hope that lies in the hearts of all children wherever they are—here, or somewhere else.
