A humorous ecological fable.

Everything was just fine in the forest until the bamboo began to blossom. As everyone knows, this means the bamboo tree is about to die. With the forest in serious danger, something must be done. The animals see only one solution : ask the great founding spirit of the forest for new bamboo seeds. The intrepid Red Panda and the far less brave Weasel set out on a quest, soon joined by a human girl whose life is also in peril. She's not as scary as she first seems. On their journey, obstacles and encounters await them that will take all their ingenuity and cooperation to conquer.
