224 pages full of the most unusual and unlikely landscapes in all of France.

There are treasures right under our noses. France has crimson canyons, stone mushrooms, fairytale waterfalls, petrifying fountains, mineral fortresses. Stroll down an ordinary countryside trail and see incredible shapes and colors emerge. Or glimpse a perfectly geometric figure or a strange visual composed by water and wind.

A professor specializing in the natural sciences, Georges Feterman is a nature discovery travel guide and the author of several books in the same imprint. For over 20 years, he has hunted down wonders, passionately seeking out France's most unusual and sublime landscapes.
