Artist Catherine Meurisse's sojourn in a remote yet strangely familiar part of Japan gives her another chance to pursue her muse.

Once again, artist Catherine Meurisse draws upon her memories. Her 2018 stay in a faraway yet strangely familiar land—Japan's Villa Kujoyama—provides her with another opportunity to pursue her creative muse, this time where the West meets the Far East. Like Lewis Carroll, she lets legendary characters lead the way through pictorial landscapes. Imagination and conversation are key to unlocking the secrets of this strange place and why she finds it so fascinating. This Alice daydreams and wonders, returning to reality to find nature in full ferment, a tyrant of events and situations.
