A coffee table book with life-sized photos that make it easier to recognize species and discover all sorts of details.

One thing that makes birdwatching easy and attractive is that birds are everywhere, in almost every natural setting, year-round. But it's hard to observe them up close with the naked eye. This beautiful, richly illustrated tome with luxurious fold-outs will make you an expert at swiftly identifying the birds around you. After providing all the information needed to know these birds inside and out, lure them to your backyard, and watch them, Lesaffre presents detailed factsheets of over 50 species: size, population, areas and period of presence, habitat, behavior, songs and calls.
