Climate change from a penguin's point-of-view.

Satirical, ridiculous, scathing, cool, kooky, incorrigible: these birds are masters of keepin' it cool, stayin' frosty even when things go cray-cray!

These little penguins dwell on a glacier now imperiled on our abused planet. Their bipedal appearance, quirks, and convictions make them our hapless, comical, and pathetic counterparts. With biting humor, Xavier Gorce calls out our behavior in all its absurdity, from the consequences of global warming to the contradictions in our dietary habits, from lobbies to political inaction. By pointing out our inconsistencies, he hopes to raise our awareness.
