A fresh, contemporary novel about gender equality in a girls' rugby team.

Margot's vowed to "Be who I am, make my own way, no matter what people say." Off to turn a new leaf and be a hermit in the Pyrenees, she runs into Argia, a young shepherdess who's fed up with her 842 charges. When a cow patty cracks them up, a friendship is born, revolving around life with the flock. And the day after a summer festival, Margot asks Argia to join her Team Raffut, a secret group with big ambitions in the rugby world. Shhh! Loose lips sink ships! A story of gender equality and equity, rugby, fresh mountain air... and sheep.
