Film is a fabulous medium for dreams and feelings, but also a wonderful learning tool to awaken children's artistic instincts. But it isn't always easy as a parent to pick the right movies--there are so many!
Apart from blockbusters, what little overlooked gems should kids watch? Which are appropriate for ages 3-4? Which feature will start conversations about such concepts as tolerance, courage, and grief? Or send them traveling through time to discover the world?
Clémence Prompsy has picked 100 films, musical comedies and animated films, classics and forgotten treasures, organized by age, theme, genre, and title (in several indexes) as a guide for parents.
