A tender, sensitive book for declaring your love to your baby.

"In the little blue house, there is a little yellow house. In the little yellow house, there is a little red house. In the little red house, there is a little white house. In the little white house, there is just a little heart. That beats. And beats. And beats. For you, for me. For you, for me. For you, for me."

A book, inspired by an English nursery rhyme, that reads like a little beating heart. Words to whisper in your baby's ear...

Featuring flaps that open like nested houses, from the largest to the smallest, as the illustrations cycle through the named colors and a series of tender moments between a mother and her little one.
