An immersive journey into the history of science and ideas, from Antiquity to today's world.

What are the origins of science? How did we come to want to understand the universe? So many questions for understanding the world we live in. Two characters set off to investigate these questions by going back in time so they can meet those who invented and developed science. Behind the names are often fascinating characters with extraordinary lives! Pascal Marchand and Jean-Benoît Meybeck use plenty of humor to take us on a wild historical tour of the science and ideas of Ancient Greece!
