In the grandmother's factory, each book is born from a breath of imagination and magic, a precious secret that she will soon share with her grandson.

Today, my grandmother shared her greatest secret with me: her fabulous book factory! Together, we explored a land of imagination, teeming with fireflies, pirates, and dragons. When she sits in her armchair, she turns on the magic wheels and our ideas are transformed into living characters and breathtaking landscapes, weaving an extraordinary story. And just like that, a new book is born! But my grandmother also taught me how books can be born without magic!
