"You stole my childhood!" Before she addressed world leaders, Greta was once a child like any other.

Ever since she was a girl, Greta was told to turn out the lights, turn off the faucet, and not to waste food... but no one ever told her why? One day at school, it all made sense: because of global warming. But what was she to do about the planet?

First step: buy local, eat less meat, recycle, and reuse. But faced with an environmental crisis, Greta didn't stop there. She decided to protest... before parliament! This was the beginning of a realization and a desire to speak out to the world. We are never too young to make a difference.
