Guilty: the popular justice app. Use it to release convict Diego Abrio and track him down so you can... help him escape, or kill him! A thriller set in a near future where everyone can cast a vote about a convict's fate... and mete out their own justice.

Welcome to a society with a unique judicial and prison system! To reduce the number of prisoners and avoid the costs of lengthy investigations and red tape, this justice system will release prisoners under certain conditions. These conditions were met for Diego Abrio, 22, detained three years for voluntary manslaughter. When he received three million clicks in his favor on Guilty, the Ministry of Justice's official app, he was freed. But once freed, he must face his victim's relatives, angry strangers who are within their rights to kill him, and his own guilt...
