This pioneering book, a work of record in its field, is without peer when it comes international Foucault studies.

From ancient rituals to modern denominations, Christianity was, for Michel Foucault, a subject of constant interrogation, as steered by current events: what part did this faith play in our lives, in the way we behaved, divined our desires, and sought our salvation? This book is the first to gather in a single volume all the writings on Christianity by one of the 20th century's most important French philosophers, from Madness and Civilization to his great posthumous work Confessions of the Flesh.

"A must-read for anyone interested in Foucault's work " ~ C. Gordon, Foucault News
