A powerful tale of love and reconciliation, where shadows and shifting sands intertwine in an unforgettable journey of healing and self-discovery.

Once, the two of you were inseparable. But that romance ended in destruction. How do you put yourself back together again afterward? In search of the pieces to her own puzzle, atheist engineer Sakura begins a journey that gradually distances her from distrust, one encounter at a time: Luis, Mexican refugee by day, flamboyant drag queen by night; Jeanine, potter and kintsugi artist; Ismaël, a guide in the bay, in whose footsteps she learns to see and feel again.... Sakura's discovers the history of her own mother, who disappeared when she was a child, takes her from Mont-Saint-Michel to Japan, along paths of unexpected resilience.
