A healthy dose of good humor helps when learning about the distressing lives of the unhoused.

Meet a family who's lived in: a puppet theater discarded by the dumpsters, a billionaire's gilded private jet, a giant's suitcase, and more! Then, shrinking so as to go unnoticed, they wind up in... The Jungle Book! Where they run into some scary stuff, but also young Mowgli, whom they wind up adopting!

The narrator never reveals his name in the course of the story, but at the end, he promises to tell us someday. Someday, when he has a real house to call home, where he can have us over as guests! Includes information about unhoused people, living hand-to-mouth, and how good it feels to have a roof over your head.
