An international, graphic investigation on how to overcome preconceived ideas about waste and the real steps to tackle it.

Every year, the entire planet produces over 2 billion tons of waste. That is 70 tons every second. Plastic alone weighs more than all the marine and terrestrial animals on Earth... And yet, we have never had so little contact with what we throw away. A mind-boggling, well-researched investigation that is easy to read and fun, with colorful infographics that help us understand the stakes of this much-overlooked subject.
