The talented Benjamin Lacombe illustrates Francis Scott Fitzgerald's masterpiece with illustrations inspired by the graphic style of the 1920's.

New York City, the Roaring Twenties... Jay Gatsby hosts lavish parties that draw crowds from far and wide to his sumptuous Long Island mansion. But he is only interested in dazzling one person: Daisy Buchanan. She's elegant, rich, and captivating... but she is already the wife of a millionaire heir. Illustrated by Benjamin Lacombe, one of the foremost figures in contemporary French illustration, and enhanced by a golden pantone, this literary classic is a delight to re-explore.
