Virgil has had a complicated life since an accident left him quadriplegic, and tired of being dependent on others, he has made a radical decision: he is through with life.

Virgile has led a complicated life since an accident left him quadriplegic. Tired of being dependent on others, he has made a radical decision: he is through with life. But he has every intention of leaving not with a whimper, but a bang! He decides to organize one last grand party with all his loved ones, turning his farewell into a moment of sharing and joy. Through this poignant reflection on freedom of choice, Zidrou and Lucy Mazel choose to celebrate life to the very end.
